 - Reorganization
 - Downsizing
 - Work redesign
 - New technology
 - Outsourcing
 - New strategies
 - Culture shift
- ☑ Following a change initiative, employees are:
 - Leaving the company
 - Less productive
 - Absent more
 - Low in spirit and morale
- ☑ You want employees to maintain commitment and performance during periods of change.

Individual Transition in Organizations

Individual Transition in Organizations is a dynamic, in-house workshop designed to help employees manage the personal transitions that are created by organizational change. It addresses the individual impacts of being in transition and how to deal with them to make the transition less disruptive and more productive.

Throughout the workshop, employees focus on a current organizational change. They identify the specific transitions they are going through and develop action plans to: minimize distress and disruption, move their transitions along more quickly, and enhance their ability to successfully grow through times of rapid and significant organizational change.

Individual Transition in Organizations provides the transition management skills employees need to: identify and let go of old behaviors, values, procedures, and mindsets that are no longer relevant or appropriate, successfully navigate through the chaos and confusion between the old and the new situation, and effectively engage in the new way of doing things.

Individual Transition in Organizations Results

During this interactive workshop your employees will:

- Learn how to handle transitions with less disruption and distress in their lives and work
- Learn the difference between change and transition
- Determine where they are in the three-phase transition process
- Learn how to create and implement effective strategies and actions to manage transition
- Discover ways to renew their creativity and commitment during periods of rapid change
- Learn how to deal more effectively with nonstop personal change
- Use the tools and put together a personal transition management plan for a current organizational change
